

ROWLAND BRYANT

Rowland Bryant is a recent transplant to the York area from the beautiful Hudson Valley in New York State. He lives here with his girlfriend, Sandy, and their Yorkie and Silky Terrier rescue dogs, Libby and Munchkin.

Rowland was born in Woodbury, New Jersey, across the river from Philadelphia. He started painting at age 12 and did charcoal portraits in Wildwood, New Jersey.

He studied electrical engineering and worked for 20 years on submarines in Newport, Rhode Island and Groton, Connecticut. He left his chosen field and moved to Sunderland, Vermont where he purchased, renovated and operated The Ira Allen House Bed & Breakfast for 10 years. There he was able to hone his culinary talents into tasty meals for his guests.

After he sold the Inn, Rowland moved to Cambridge, NY and renovated another home. There he resumed turning the barns, homes and scenery of the area into watercolors on his canvases. Six years ago, Rowland moved to Saugerties in the Hudson Valley region of New York where he enjoyed cooking for his friends, painting, kayaking, and exploring the northeast.

In his exhibit, Country Life Glimpses, Rowland presents watercolor scenes of rural barns, train stations and old schoolhouses in the northeast along with sunrises and sunsets from around the country.
